

Cabot Named To Calvert Social Index

March 23, 2012

BOSTON--(BUSINESS WIRE)--Mar. 23, 2012-- Cabot Corporation (NYSE: CBT) has been added to the Calvert Social Index®, a broad-based, rigorously constructed benchmark for measuring the performance of U.S.-based socially responsible companies.

Cabot has successfully met the sustainable and responsible standards set for the Calvert Social Index, and the Company's inclusion in the Index affirms its commitment to environmental disclosure and management.

Calvert, a leader in sustainable and responsible investing, studies the 1,000 largest U.S. companies, and conducts sustainability audits on each company in the areas of: governance and ethics, environment, workplace, product safety and impact, community relations, international operations and human rights, and indigenous peoples' rights. The companies that meet the Index's sustainable and responsible criteria are selected for inclusion in the Index.

"One of Cabot's great strengths is that our employees care deeply about the world they live in," said Cabot President and Chief Executive Officer Patrick Prevost. "We are committed to keeping our people safe, making our operations sustainable, and improving the communities where we live and work."

"Our latest sustainability report demonstrates our continued progress in this field," Prevost said. "Cabot's inclusion in the Calvert Social Index is another confirmation of our commitment to a sustainable future."
